WELCOME TO THE EXPEDITION SPECIAL OF BLUE HORIZONS

Sara Macefield is an award-winning travel journalist who nailed her colours to the mast nearly two decades ago when she started writing about cruises. She's since sailed across oceans and rivers all over the world in vessels of varying shapes and sizes. Here, she introduces this Special Edition of Blue Horizons.

Have you ever wondered what it would be like to sail to the ends of the earth?

In this month's special expedition edition of Blue Horizons, we are delighted to offer a host of adventurous sailings designed to help you follow in the footsteps of explorers to the most remote regions of the planet.

Happy Cruising!

There's something quite mind-blowing about waking up and watching from your bed as a procession of ivory icebergs gently floats past your window.

Knowing I was at the bottom of the earth, it was like nothing I'd ever experienced. The untouched beauty of the White Continent was about as far removed from the frenetic whirl of 21st century life as I could imagine. Being able to explore it aboard one of the new generation expedition ships from cruiselines such as Seabourn, Silversea and Scenic (designed to cope with extreme conditions without compromising on luxury), made such an experience even more precious.

There's nothing that matches the thrill of seeing land after crossing the legendary Drake Passage separating South America from the Antarctic Peninsula; of encountering roaring elephant seals squaring up to each other; and of comical penguins waddling along in unison.

The Arctic is similarly breath-taking, whether it is exploring the remote islands of Svalbard lying within the Arctic Circle at the top of Norway or the vast expanse of Greenland stretching across thousands of miles but, for me, the biggest thrill was the chance of seeing polar bears.

This happened last summer on a voyage exploring Greenland's remote eastern coast; a young male was spotted pacing along the shore and we were all taken out in Zodiac boats for a closer look. It was an incredible moment, but this was a voyage marked by one natural wonder after another, from passing pods of orcas and fin whales to columns of gigantic gnarled icebergs, some the size of the Empire State Building.

But nowhere can beat the Galápagos Islands when it comes to animal magic. Whatever you've read or heard about this legendary Pacific archipelago and its wealth of wildlife, which famously has no fear of humans, it still doesn't prepare you for the exhilarating reality.

To be surrounded by creatures that treat you as one of their own, to swim with sealions ducking and diving like watery playmates or penguins zipping past and tapping inquisitively on your snorkel mask, is truly incredible – and a hallmark of the many life-affirming moments that expeditionary voyages serve up with such ease.

With so many exciting expeditionary cruises to inspire you, don't hesitate to contact us if you need more information when it comes to planning your own unforgettable adventure.

YOUR GALÁPAGOS WILDLIFE WATCHLIST...

Sally Lightfoot Crab

The brightly coloured Sally Lightfoot crab is a common sight along the shores and beaches of most of the Galápagos Islands. They are rumoured to have been named after a Caribbean dancer, due to their extreme agility, jumping from rock to rock. They're striking colours make for a stunning appearance too.

Marine Iguana

Found only in the Galápagos Islands, the iconic Marine Iguanas are distinguishable by the white "wigs" of salt expelled from glands near their noses. They look fierce, but are actually gentle herbivores, surviving exclusively on underwater algae and seaweed. Their short snouts and razor sharp teeth help them scrape algae off rocks.

Galápagos Sea Lion

The cute Galápagos Sea Lion is the most abundant marine mammal in the archipelago and is often seen sleeping on the beaches or swimming close to shore. Their streamlined bodies make them very efficient swimmers and hunters, especially of sardines. If you're lucky, you may get the chance to witness young pups chasing each other along the sand.

KIMBERLEY: THE ULTIMATE EXPLORER'S PARADISE

There is no place on Earth like the Kimberley coast, it tops travel lists time and time again with good reason. The Kimberley is wild and remote with a storied history, and it is untouched by man other than the ancient Indigenous that you'll find scratched into the walls of the caves. Almost impenetrable, the landscape consists of sparkling horizontal waterfalls, gorges, canyons, ridges, ancient mangrove forests and cliffs. No two journeys here are the same, you might see a humpback whale or a saltwater crocodile while exploring the waters, but you won't spot any humans. The size of France and nestled at the north of the Western Territory this is a destination for those who love to explore. Join Silversea on a journey to the place that time forgot but that you'll remember forever.

STAFF STORIES a life-changing experience

Join ROL Cruise team member Rebeca as she sails aboard Seabourn Pursuit

Q Seabourn Pursuit is as special as the waters she sails – can you tell us about the on board experience?

I can honestly say that the staff on board made me feel so at ease and welcome. Seabourn Pursuit is a brand-new ship and all the facilities on board are incredible. There is so much choice of food on board – I would never have thought I'd be eating sushi and caviar in Antarctica!

Q Seabourn offers travellers a wide variety of shore excursions. Which shore excursions did you enjoy during your cruise?

I absolutely loved the tours in the Zodiacs in the afternoons because it was the best way to see the wildlife and glaciers. I also did the polar plunge on the last day which was an amazing experience! I definitely underestimated how cold the water was but definitely a once in a lifetime opportunity!

There were so many other excursions to do like a submarine dive and kayak tours. I definitely recommend pre-booking in advance!

★YOUR EXPEDITION HIGHLIGHTS★ CRUISING PRINCE CHRISTIAN SOUND

The transit of the Prince Christian Sound is one of the highlights of cruising in Greenland. The sound is narrow, sometimes as little as 1500 feet across, and numerous glaciers reach the sea on its shores, calving icebergs into the sound. The only indications of humanity to be seen are the Ikerassasuaq weather station where the ship enters, and the small village of Appilattoq, housing approximately 100 people. Animal life is more abundant, with minke, fin and blue whales seen frequently, as well as ringed and bearded seals that haul out on the floating ice.

PACK LIKE AN EXPLORER

There are several things to remember and bring along with you when you are going on an expedition. To make packing a bit easier, we have compiled a packing list, covering both polar waters and expeditions in warmer waters.

If you should forget something, don't worry! On board, you will often find a shop with a wide range of clothing and practical items.

- Shoes with good soles are recommended for use outdoor on deck and for excursions ashore. Try to ensure that they are worn-in to avoid discomfort
- Extra shoelaces are also a good idea
- A memory card with a large capacity – usually there are sockets in the cabins to recharge photo equipment
- Extra batteries for your camera, as battery life is shorter in cold areas
- A good pair of binoculars
- A small waterproof backpack is necessary for carrying essentials
- Sun protection
- Sunglasses with UV filter lenses
- Lip salve with UV protection. Dry, cold wind and sun often causes chapped lips
- Money in the correct currency
- Remember to bring sufficient medication
- Wind and water-resistant trousers and long thermal underwear and top (we recommend wool)
- Warm cap or headband
- Swimwear for use in the on-deck whirlpools/swimming pools
- Scarf or fleece tube
- Warm woollen jumpers and fleece jumper/jacket. Remember layers are essential
- Gloves and mittens, fleece and wool, and warm socks
